

The Division of Biology and Medicine

The Division of Biology and Medicine is home to five academic departments, fourteen clinical departments, and is affiliated with seven diverse teaching hospitals (<http://brown.edu/academics/medical/about/hospitals/>) in and around Providence. At the Division's core is the Warren Alpert Medical School and the five academic departments in Biology (which includes study at the undergraduate and graduate levels).

For more information on Brown's many research centers, institutes, programs, and other initiatives in the health and life sciences found within the Division of Biology and Medicine, please visit <http://biomed.brown.edu/research/cip/> (<http://biomed.brown.edu/research/cip/>).

For further summary information on the academic units within the Division, please follow the below links:

- The Warren Alpert Medical School of Brown University (<http://bulletin.brown.edu/medical-school/>)
- Biology (Undergraduate) (<http://bulletin.brown.edu/biologyandmedicine/biology-undergraduate/>)
- Biology (Graduate) (<http://bulletin.brown.edu/biologyandmedicine/biology-graduate/>)